OUR STORY

It was never simply about what a bride wears

Derin in Details began with a simple realisation: styling was never simply about what a bride wears. It is about how she feels, who she becomes, and everything it takes to bring that feeling to life.

Someone has to hold the entire process together: translating an instinct into a moodboard, a moodboard into fabric and silhouette, an idea into a finished look, without ever losing sight of the woman at the centre of it. That is the role I stepped into.

Bridal styling was not new, yet the experience of feeling truly understood still felt rare. Brides knew how they wanted to feel but not always how to translate that into what they would wear. That became the heart of Derin in Details.

There is no formula for creating something personal. No two women want the same thing or need the same kind of reassurance. Our aesthetic may be recognisable, but the woman at the centre of it is always different.

I work with brides who trust their own feelings enough to want something true to them, not simply trend correct. Brides who want to feel like themselves, only more fully realised. That is who Derin in Details is for.

GOOD TO KNOW

A few things before you book

How does booking work?

A deposit confirms your date and secures the styling timeline; the balance is due closer to the event. Full terms are shared with your consultation.

Do you travel outside Lagos?

Yes. Out-of-Lagos styling is available; travel and accommodation are arranged around your event.

What does the styling fee cover?

Creative direction, sourcing, fittings and day-of styling. Garments, fabric and tailoring are billed separately, though we coordinate directly with vendors on your behalf.

Do you style the groom?

Groom styling is available on request, alongside a bridal booking.
